

NEWSLETTER

---

---

THE INVESTIGATION IS CARRIED OUT ON FOOT.

In the heart of Cape Town, tucked behind the rhythm of bustling streets and the hum of everyday life, a quiet war is being waged—a war not of violence, but of eviction notices, legal loopholes, and calculated silence. For X, a longtime resident of a modest home passed down from her mother, the battleground is personal. X has lived in her home for 38 years. Her mother, a dedicated South African Post Office worker, was granted the house through government allocation—a promise, she thought, of stability. That promise has unraveled into a nightmare.

THE VICTIM HAS BEEN MISSING FOR THREE DAYS.

It began in 2015. After her mother passed away, the city moved to place the home up for auction, without warning or consultation. There was no knock at the door, no offer of support. Just a letter: five weeks' notice to vacate. No alternative housing. No rent-to-own discussion. Just a faceless declaration: your time is up.

NEWSLETTER

---

---

THE INVESTIGATION IS CARRIED OUT ON FOOT.

In the heart of Cape Town, tucked behind the rhythm of bustling streets and the hum of everyday life, a quiet war is being waged—a war not of violence, but of eviction notices, legal loopholes, and calculated silence. For X, a longtime resident of a modest home passed down from her mother, the battleground is personal. X has lived in her home for 38 years. Her mother, a dedicated South African Post Office worker, was granted the house through government allocation—a promise, she thought, of stability. That promise has unraveled into a nightmare.

THE VICTIM HAS BEEN MISSING FOR THREE DAYS.

It began in 2015. After her mother passed away, the city moved to place the home up for auction, without warning or consultation. There was no knock at the door, no offer of support. Just a letter: five weeks' notice to vacate. No alternative housing. No rent-to-own discussion. Just a faceless declaration: your time is up.

